RE: MB Docket No. 04-233

Dear Ms. Dortch:

At Wells Fargo, we provide a broad scope of financial services to the Cedar Valley community. It is important to be apprised of what's transpiring around us in a timely manner so we are aware of and better equipped to meet and serve our local needs. In addition, the majority of our team members are actively involved as volunteers in various community events and civic organizations.

It is refreshing to be able to approach our local broadcast station management at KWWL with press releases regarding our business as well as appear live on the air with updates and awareness of a variety of community events.

For example, one of our branches received a bomb threat a few weeks ago requiring evacuation for several hours. The team was quick to respond to the scene to inform our customers and community citizens of what was transpiring so they would avoid the scene for their own protection and minimize further risk. In addition, I was the local United Way campaign chairperson this year. I was amazed with how your news team covered the progress of this important community initiative that affects so many of us. We can always count on accurate and knowledgeable information at KWWL, but this experience allowed me to see the compassion in which they serve our community and the painstaking work behind the scenes they are committed to so that they may deliver the quality of news coverage we often take for granted.

Many of our team members commute 20-35 miles daily; we pay close attention to frequently-updated, local weather conditions, especially during the challenges of this past winter. We utilize the forecasts and road condition reports not only in determining our travel plans for the commute to work, but as the team leader, I keep close watch on our ever-changing weather conditions through out the day to minimize risk to our employees.

There are too many examples to reference, but we rely on the expedient, accurate and concise information that our local broadcast network, KWWL, consistently delivers. The team works hard to earn their high marks and well-deserved respect throughout the Cedar Valley; they are very community oriented and serve the public in countless ways. I am concerned that additional Federal regulation could impact the service, currently provided to our community that we heavily depend upon. Please carefully consider proposed regulatory changes; I am confident that it is not necessary to direct Eastern Iowa's broadcasters to air local matters, or to dictate how they communicate with me, my company, or other local leaders and organizations in the Cedar Valley.

Sincerely,
